T AIN'T RIGHT
"Gotta match?"
"Sir?"
We admit, we're the goat. What with the boyish bob and approaching dusk and our cigar out and without a match and no place to buy one what can you expect.
Add to this the perplexing fact that the lady wore a semi-military uniform with cap and that we've been fooled as to the proper sex for the last few months on account of the Vaseline haircuts and the balloon pants 'n' everything.
Last night we dropped in at the Legion Circus for a few moments when the above mentioned incident occurred.
In the words of Congressman Sorghum "what's this world coming to anyway."

T AIN'T RIGHT
The latest tale of woe from the business section comes from Harry Marcus. Harry has been working hard to build up his sales force in his new store.
Last Saturday night according to Harry one of his young lady clerks bid him farewell and Monday morning when he started calling hospitals and police stations and what not to try to locate the young lady in question he was informed, "She's off on her honeymoon."
"It seems to be a risky business to have young ladies selling men socks and ties, etc.," says Harry. "I have been considering the advisability of employing a Hollywood Attorney to draw up a form of contract for me including a marriage clause, but then you know I can't talk myself."

T AIN'T RIGHT
Yes we've got our ticket for the Policeman's ball and we hereby serve notice on the entire Richmond Police Department. We're tired of sneaking around on the street with a guilty look. Go to it boys we're all for you on that ball and even though we'll have to be down here grinding out copy, the evening before Thanksgiving instead of tripping the light fantastic our thoughts will be with you.
But for the luvva Mike. Please Mister. Whenever we stop our bus down town don't walk up and put one foot on the running board in that familiar way and start talking about tickets. We got a weak heart and what with Christmas just a few days off we can't stand it.

TAINT RIGHT
Says George N. Rooker manager of the Western States Gas and Electric Company. In fact George repeated that to himself so often that he took action and convinced Al Abrahams that it isn't the fashion to play golf especially against Clinton Smith.
The result is that the committee in charge of the Richmond Merchant's Association Golf tournament has announced that Abrahams has withdrawn from the golf tournament and that Rooker and Smith have been matched. Rooker goes into the tournament with a handicap of 28 while Smith has a handicap of 35.
Bert Carter didn't think it was right either and he had had his handicap changed from 30 to 35.

69 BELIEVED LOST ON SUBMARINE ITALIAN WAR DEBT AGREEMENT IS REACHED

TERMS FOR THE SETTLEMENT OF BIG DEBT MADE

Italian Government Is Given Most Lenient Terms by U. S.

Agreement was Based on Italy's Ability to Pay as Taken By Commission

(By Universal Service)

Annual payments, amounting to from five million to 80 million dollars in the 62 years. An average of thirty-nine million dollars a year. Settlement on the British basis would have cost Italy seventy million dollars annually and on the Belgium about forty-five million.
The agreement represents the greatest concession made by the United States thus far to any debtor nation and is based entirely on America's understanding of Italy's capacity to pay.

False Testimony Charge Made by Mrs. Lansdowne

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—In a clear decisive voice without a quaver Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne widow of the ill fated dirigible Shenandoah today testified before the Mitchell court-martial that the navy department had endeavored to induce her to give false testimony before the court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah.
The effort was made by Captain Paul Fole, technical aide to Secretary Wilbur and judge advocate of the Shenandoah court.
Mrs. Lansdowne told the court she was asked to testify that her husband was willing to take the Shenandoah out in any kind of weather and that his protest against making the flight was based merely upon the objection to using the ship for political purposes.
She said she was also asked to assert her confidence in the naval court of inquiry.

Jacqueline Rogers, girl double for the Prince of Wales, faces a prison sentence in New York for her alleged theft of many automobiles. Her manly haircut and the severe lines of her attire add to this resemblance.

Valentino Divorce Is Held Certain At Present Time

By C. F. BERTELLI
Staff Correspondent Universal Service.
PARIS, Nov. 12.—The romance of the Valentinos is definitely on the rocks. About December 15 the Paris courts will pronounce a divorce in favor of Mrs. Valentino on the usual ground of "grave insults."
The refusal of a husband to live with his wife is considered by the Paris divorce mill as the gravest insult a man can offer to a woman and that is exactly what Rudy Valentino specifically declares in a letter to his wife.

HELD STRICT SECRET.

The matter has been kept a strict secret until now only because up to a few days before Mrs. Valentino sailed for New York there was still a slight hope that matters could be arranged.
Having left Hollywood in a huff the former Natacha Rambova remained firm in her resolution for a one-year matrimonial vacation, just two weeks too long. When she at last relented, Valentino had himself decided that the marital vacation was not so bad after all and consequently declined to resume his marital duties.

Attack on Law Brings Protest

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The address of Major General J. G. Harbord attacking the Volstead Act today aroused the anger of Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel of the Anti-Saloon League.
Wheeler issued a statement replying to General Harbord's Army Day address which the prohibition leader declared "marred the spirit of the day."
"The Volstead Act does not go beyond the purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment," the statement said. "It did just what the brewers and the people expected it to do."
Wheeler emphasized that no attack had been made on President Coolidge by the Anti-Saloon League convention here, but that the convention had commended him for his expressed declaration to enforce the prohibition law.

Remarks were also given by Kremer, Devine, Exalted Ruler James F. Hoey, of Richmond, and other members of the local lodge. The entertainment features included selections by the Sequoia Trio of Oakland, and H. J. Millholland, managing director of the General Electric company's broadcasting station KGO, also of Oakland.

SATURDAY MAY DECIDE TITLE FOR FOOTBALL

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The Pacific Coast champion of football has narrowed down to two games which are expected to tell the entire story of the battle between the University of Washington Huskies who arrive here tomorrow and the California Bears at Berkeley next Saturday and in event of a California victory the contest to follow one week later, the "Big Game" with Stanford and the Bears as principals at Palo Alto.
Continual rain in the bay community is said to favor the heavy Washington gridders and to militate against Andy Smith who is believed to plan much open play against the northern invader.
Washington has but one conference game after Saturday, that with Oregon and this opponent is not expected to create serious opposition. The two undefeated teams, playing at Berkeley this week end therefore produce the (Continued to page 6)

Oakland Landmark May Be Condemned

OAKLAND, Nov. 12.—One of Oakland's landmarks—the Key Route Inn, at Twenty-second and Broadway, will without doubt become a thing of the past within a short time. Extensive alterations of Twenty-second street to provide a traffic artery through the site now occupied by the inn are under consideration for the city planning commission, Eugene K. Sturgis, secretary of the commission announced yesterday.
It is certain the report of the commission will contain a recommendation for condemnation proceedings against the inn, to provide a traffic way connecting Twenty-second and Grand avenues, thus providing an uninterrupted thoroughfare between West and East Oakland, via Twenty-second street.

C., was photographed subsequently with J. R. Campbell, noted Communist and editor of the "Workers Weekly." Campbell was arrested for alleged "revolutionary" remarks. The Communist Member of Parliament defended the editor in court.

DR. BLAZER IS RELEASED ON DEATH CHARGE

(By Universal Service)
LITTLETON, (Colo.), Nov. 12.—Although the record shows that a jury refused to acquit him of murdering his idiot, shapeless daughter, Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer is a free man tonight.
Following a jury disagreement that was registered through a peculiar chain of events—when 30 minutes more a deliberation would have meant a "not guilty" verdict—the charge against the old country physician was dismissed, thus closing the door to a second trial.

The result was accepted by officials and public of Arapahoe county as a most fortunate and convenient outcome of a case that had caused no little concern locally. The last Colorado furnish to the world a questionable precedent in the matter of destroying the unfit.
The climax came suddenly and passed so swiftly and quietly that it was not even dramatic.

A program that promises to be replete with surprises is being prepared for Saturday night when the Richmond Pyramid of Sciotes entertains with a Mobid's night. Mobid Homer W. Mitchell's Advice Now Being Taken By General Staff

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The war department which is trying Col. Mitchell for his arraignment of the Air service have begun a belated effort to repair some of the deficiencies in national defense which formed the basis of his charges.
It developed in today's testimony before the court martial that since Mitchell made his charge that the Panama canal is menaced by the establishment of an air mail service in Central America under a foreign flag the Army General Staff has ordered an inquiry with a view to strengthening the air defense of the Canal Zone.
Mitchell's charge was made to the court in the opening statement of his counsel last Monday. On the very next day the Department took official notice of the canal situation and directed "conferences" on the subject.

Volunteers Are Wanted In Red Cross Roll Call

Mrs. R. Y. Marsh, director for the Red Cross roll call is asking for volunteers to help carry on the membership drive. The work consists of sitting at a table and giving receipts to those who subscribe. Twenty-third street Mercantile Trust Bank; Janssen Furniture company, Sixteenth and Macdonald avenue; Harry Marcus Department Store; Albert's Inc.; West Side Mercantile Trust Bank; Sixth street La Moine Drug company store; and the Red Cross headquarters, at the Health Center, 35 Ninth street.

The first answer to the call for membership was received from Dr. C. R. Blake, city health officer. "Everyone should be proud to have a part in the work your organization is conducting, and with my membership, I want to assure you of my personal interest in the progress of the approaching membership campaign, and I trust that this appeal will have the generous response which every worthy cause has in our community," stated Dr. Blake in the letter which accompanied his membership fee.

The Women's Missionary society prepared the dinner. Two minute talks were given during the evening by various father and sons.

BRITISH SUB WITH 69 MEN BEING SOUGHT

Believed That The Disaster Is Analogous To The Sinking Of S-51

SERVED DURING THE WAR

Diver Dived During Naval Manoeuvre and Failed To Rise Again

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, Nov. 12.—Another tragic submarine mystery developed tonight when the Admiralty announced the disappearance of the M-1, with sixty-nine officers and men, in the English channel.
It is presumed the disaster is analogous to the loss of the S-51, which was sunk off Block Island, inasmuch as the Admiralty is searching with feverish haste to locate the M-1 and raise her to the surface.
Vessels fitted with special sound ing devices, and with lifting and carrying plant, have been dispatched from Plymouth and Portsmouth to the supposed scene of the disaster, fifteen miles south of Start point. The M-1, dived during the naval exercises and failed to reappear.

The Admiralty twelve hours before announcing her disappearance, the long search failing to locate the submarine.
The M-1 was a vessel of 1,600 tons, was 300 feet long and twenty feet wide, being considerably larger than the S-51. Built in the latter part of the war, the M-1 was credited with having sunk several enemy warships.

The first answer to the call for membership was received from Dr. C. R. Blake, city health officer. "Everyone should be proud to have a part in the work your organization is conducting, and with my membership, I want to assure you of my personal interest in the progress of the approaching membership campaign, and I trust that this appeal will have the generous response which every worthy cause has in our community," stated Dr. Blake in the letter which accompanied his membership fee.

KU KLUX KLAN ERECTS CROSS

Inquiry developed the fact yesterday that the 30 foot electric cross that was burning Armistice night on El Corrito's hill, just so, of Cutting boulevard, was erected by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.
The cross was seen from residents of Oakland, Berkeley and all east bay cities, and caused much interest.

It is understood that it was burned as a tribute to the memory of those members of the organization, who made the great sacrifice during the world war.

One of Oldest Pioneers Passes

One of the last remaining pioneers who settled in Contra Costa county in the early '50's and the county's oldest woman resident, was laid at rest at the age of 97 years and eight months in Martinez yesterday.

She was Mrs. Emily Carothers, widow of the late Dr. James H. Carothers, one-time members of the legislature, and one of the early physicians in the county. Mrs. Carothers died Tuesday at the home of her two grand nieces in Alameda. These nieces were the last descendants of the deceased's family.

Mrs. Carothers expressed hope a few months ago that she would not reach her hundredth birthday, stating that she did not want to be a burden to anyone and that old age brought a dulling of the faculties. But she was keen of mind and still active in consideration of her years until the time of her death.

AGE LIMITS

There is an arbitrariness about age limits which permits plenty of discussion but no argument. The head of the largest lumber company in Canada is 98, and every day he does a full day's work superintending the business of his concern. He has no intention either of retiring or of dying, though the doctors told him when he was 40 that he had but a few months to live. John R. Booth is an exception to the general rule.

Then there is the question of the minimum age at which a citizen may arrogate to himself the rights and privileges of being an "old man." An interesting recent instance is that of John Phillip Sousa, who, at 70, was asked why he did not take up golf. He replied that he was far too young for golf, and that he would think of the great Caledonian pastime when he became too old to do anything else. An unfair aspersions on golf, of course, but an excellent indication of the bandsman's indomitable will.

Men of certain phlegmatic temperament may retire at 60 and greatly enjoy the remaining years of their lives. Others endowed with greater restiveness and nervous energy, would find retirement either fatal or a condition of discomfort and unhappiness.

For a man who is blessed with a competency the best rule is to work as long as he finds work enjoyable. And, fortunately, the great majority of Americans find work more pleasant than idleness. American life needs the services of veterans; it needs their counsel and also their active participation in affairs.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

LOCARNO

Washington foreign diplomats who some time ago scoffed at the Locarno conference in the making have given over their attempt to "poo-hoo" the president's ideas that assemblages of this character can be successfully conducted. For the first time in many years diplomats, representatives of the several nations of Europe, gathered round a table and talked, not as prime ministers, allied diplomats, or linguistic sleight-of-hand artists, but as men really trying to bring about a stabilization of world conditions,—a stabilization that, if carried out, will mean much for the peoples of the world.

The people of the United States know that the president is desirous of steps being taken that will make wars improbable, if not impossible; that he realizes that nothing can be gained by the killing of human beings. And, in this connection, it might be well to state that what the president wants he generally gets.

It seems almost as hard to reduce taxes satisfactorily to everybody as it is to increase them.

WANT A BUFFALO OR A DEER?

We think of the buffalo as almost an extinct species of the animal kingdom, about to go with the grizzly into oblivion. Yet Uncle Sam has so many buffalo bulls that he wants to give away one hundred. The small nucleus placed in Yellowstone Park several years ago has developed into a mighty herd.

Uncle Sam has another problem—he has so many deer in the Kiabab national forest, just north of the Grand Canyon that he must have some of them killed so there will be sufficient food for those that remain. Until November 30 it will be permissible for a citizen with proper permit to kill three deer. No

Foods for Your Children

THE proper feeding of young children is a tremendous responsibility, since so much of their future health and happiness depends upon it. For these tender plants are easily blighted, if not actually destroyed, by careless or injudicious feeding.

In selecting the right foods for the little folks, two things should be given first consideration—digestibility and perfect sterilization. The best-cooked foods are the most easily digested, and none are better cooked than the products put up in cans. In the home kitchen, foods cannot be cooked at the high degree of temperature attained in the great boiling-tanks of the canneries.

Nor can home-cooking accomplish sterilization, since that requires complicated machinery such as no home possesses. The high degree of temperature attained in the canneries destroys all harmful organisms, while at the same time serving another purpose. For canned foods are cooked in sealed containers. The cans are filled with the raw food and the contents heated to a degree that expands them to brimful capacity before the cans are capped. The tops are clamped on by machinery, hermetically sealing the cans, which are then cooked sufficiently to preserve them, after which they are plunged directly into cold water. In cooling, a vacuum is created in the can. The escape of vitamins, under this process, is practically impossible. And all the original qualities are retained indefinitely, as scientific experimentation has proved.

There is nothing safer, therefore, for little children, than these scientifically processed foods which come in cans. They contain all the elements necessary to the human system, are freed from harmful bacteria, and are cooked to the point of perfect digestibility, needing only to be re-heated before serving.

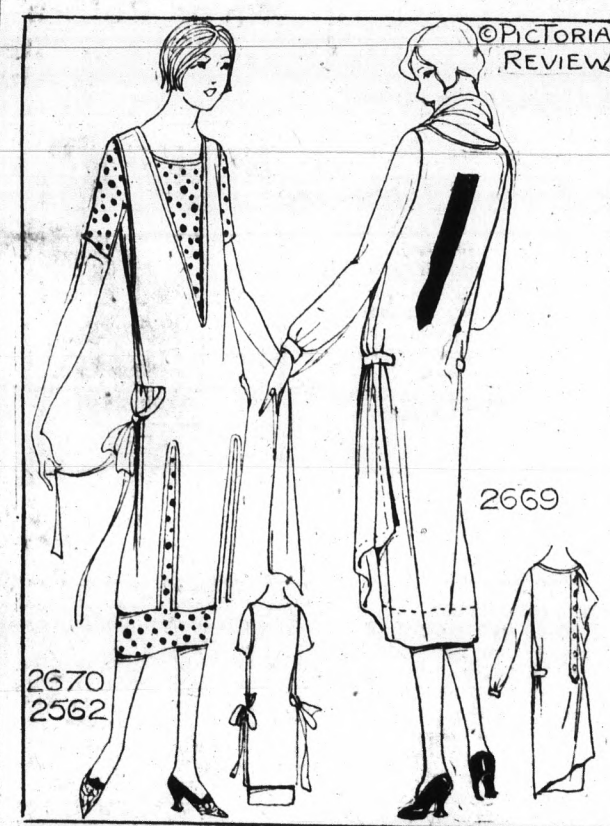

Children need variety in their diet, the same as grown people. And this variety can most safely and conveniently be given them from a well-chosen supply of prepared foods. Not only milk for the younger babies now comes in powdered, evaporated or condensed form, to be quickly reliquified or diluted with water, but many nutritious and delicious articles of food may now be had in prepared form, which are essential to the diet of children who are just beginning to take solid food.

Canned creamed potatoes, for instance, are very good for little children, supplying their systems with various necessary elements. And these may now be obtained in cans, needing only to be heated through, to be ready for little Johnnie's or wee Mary's tray. Then there are the various fruits, which all children should have, but which ought to be thoroughly cooked before they eat them. So Mother should have on hand a supply of canned peaches, canned grapefruit, canned applesauce, and similar seedless fruits. Even figs now come in cans, although these should be given to a child in small quantities. There are various excellent soups, too, that now come all prepared and ready to serve after a quick re-heating. Most of these are very nourishing for the little folks. So, also are fruit juices, especially when cooked, and these may easily be drained from the canned fruit and given the children to drink, or poured over some simple cornstarch or custard pudding, making it doubly delicious.

Many canned foods may now be obtained in small-size cans, so that a single can will contain just enough for a child, and there is no waste. However, any leftovers in the form of vegetables or chicken may be added to soups, thereby improving the flavor of the latter and at the same time practicing economy.

DESIGNED TO THE PARISIAN EDICT

The attention of smart women is drawn to frocks of printed silks and flat crepes. When the two are used in combination, so much the better. To the left is a model planned after the latest Paris idea for a jumper-blouse effect. Plain crepe is used for the blouse, which is slashed on either side of the front and bound. It is worn over a dress of dotted silk with short sleeves. The blouse is gathered at the sides and held in with a tie-string. Medium size requires 2½ yards 36-inch plain and 3 yards figured crepe. Electric blue, the shade that Paris endorses so enthusiastically, is used for the second frock. It fastens at the left side in front, and to emphasize the opening there is a jabot of self-material. The long sleeves are gathered into narrow wristbands of self-material. Only the sides of the dress are belted. Medium size requires 4¾ yards 36-inch material.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore, rather than announce her engagement tonight, as was expected of her, had dressed herself as a nun and stolen out of Aunt Celine's Connecticut home. She hailed a stranger, David Lacy, drove with him to the Sound, and crossed on a ferry. On Long Island there has been an accident, in which Lacy has been left behind. Whereupon Pooch, a stranger, has bundled her into a row-boat and rowed her out to a yacht, which they are about to board.

When he switched on the cabin light he developed freckles, blue eyes, an aggressive chin under humorous, mobile lips, and hair as red as Connemara's.

"S'right," he beamed at her. "Dressed in white—'sproper rig for yachting'. Have 'smore coffee?" "I—I—" Connemara was at what is known technically as a loss. More coffee! She had not had any coffee for hours—or was it weeks?

"Oh, aye—have 'smore coffee," White Cap urged her, "insist on it." "How about gas?" Mr. Pooch inquired, almost casually. "Got any gas?"

"Gas?" the little man laughed. "A' the gas in the world—gas, water, onions, marmalade—got everything. 'Sgo cruising? Tak ye anywhere ye say."

"We might go for a spin," Mr. Pooch seemed to deliberate. "Go ahead, Sandy; start her up." "Dinna call me Sandy," White Cap objected. "S'langrous. Call me Angus McTish—a friends here, see?"

"All right, McTish, old scout, hop bridge, where Mr. Pooch was chewing a cigar at Angus McTish's elbow. Up ahead a light—Execution Rock, so Mr. Pooch announced—pierced the darkness. Astern, but very faintly, came the thro' of a distant motor boat, concerning which Mr. Pooch made no announcement, since he had not yet noticed it; just as he had not become aware of the fact—unknown to Connemara, though possibly not to Mr. McTish, who happened to be standing with his foot on a button in the deck—that the Bloody Nuisance's electric anchor light was still lit—lit, and flashing intermittently in a manner far too methodical to be accidental.

"Long—short—short—long. . . versed in such matters, might well have guessed it to be a message, had she been able to see it.

And then a sudden and most alarming racket made itself manifest in the bowels of the ship.

"Was samatter?" Mr. Pooch inquired.

"'Snothing, 'snothing," McTish assured him. "Fix 'tuo time."

He slung himself down into the engine room, and for a few moments they could hear him below, clanking under their feet. Then he reappeared, with a spanner in one hand and a broad grin on his freckled countenance.

"'Number four cylinder," he informed them. "'Sdead as a door nail. 'Sdeader. Oh, aye—far dead-er."

"Well, don't stand there gassing about it," Mr. Pooch rebuked him. "Can't you fix it?"

"Sure," McTish beamed. "Fix anything."

He lifted the engine hatch in the deck and fetched the exposed cylinder tops a terrific crack with the spanner.

"Hey!" Mr. Pooch exclaimed. "What the hell you doing?"

"'Soakem!" McTish insisted. "Something wrang wi' th' engine? Always hit it a crack wi' a spanner first—'sonly way to fixem!"

McTish was obviously still extremely intoxicated—and yet the certainty swept over Connemara at that moment that Mr. McTish was actually as sober as a new-born clam and that he had been so from the first. Connemara could not have told why, but she was suddenly sure of this, just as she was positive that something desperate was about to happen.

It did, at once. Mr. McTish raised his hand for another crack at the cylinder top, and Mr. Pooch lunged forward.

"Cut that out, you bum!" he roared. "Tryin' to bust the spark plugs—"

While the words were still in the air the bridge became a tumult of arms, legs, faces, splinters, and profanity. The Bloody Nuisance, left to herself, behaved like one and rolled broadside on to the nearest sea. Connemara, holding on to a rod of some kind, saw that the two men were gripped in each other's arms. Mr. Pooch was on top of McTish, wrestling for the spanner and beating him with his other fist, while Mr. McTish seemed to be biting Mr. Pooch when and wherever occasion offered. But it was inevitable that Mr. Pooch should triumph, since he had all the advantages of weight and position on his side. And it was not long—although it seemed an eternity to Connemara—before Mr. Pooch had slung Mr. McTish into the forecastle and slammed and padlocked the hatch on top of him.

"The bum!" Mr. Pooch panted. "Tryin' to wreck the engine. . . My Gawd!"

Mr. Pooch had just caught that staccato exhaust of a power boat somewhere astern, a sound that drew nearer as he listened, and which evidently signified dire contingencies to his mind, for he jumped all the way down the companionway into the cabin.

"Why—wh—?" Connemara ventured.

"Revenners!" Mr. Pooch flung at her over his shoulder. "Make it snappy, kid!"

"Snappy?"

"Sure—time to fly this floating coop!"

Mr. Pooch was already in the cockpit, hauling in the painter. He turned for an instant to look at Connemara, standing in the light from the cabin into which she followed him—and all at once his expression changed to one of sinister intensity.

Richmond Annex Lot Sale Will Be Started Saturday

Richmond Annex, that splendid and highly improved residential park, adjacent to Richmond, bordering San Pablo avenue and extending back to the bay shore, announces that the final clean-up sale of the remaining 200 unsold homesites gets under way tomorrow, Saturday, November 14, and will continue until every lot is sold.

In recognition of the desire of many Richmond investors to take advantage of the extremely low prices now prevailing, the sale announcement goes to Richmond first.

As an indicator of the growth of this residential district, a movement is now under way to hold an annexation election, making Richmond Annex part and parcel of Richmond proper.

A petition bearing the required number of signatures from the residents of Richmond Annex is now in the hands of the Richmond city council.

In this property all street work, all sewers, all sidewalks, all water mains have been or are being laid. Its development compares favorably with residential tracts, where the prices are ten times those asked in Richmond Annex, according to the Richmond Annex Land Co., owners and developers of this tract.

The further fact that the Southern Pacific has acquired a right of way along the Panhandle, ninety foot boulevard that taps the heart of Richmond Annex, indicates that better and improved transportation is near at hand.

Already there is good car service on San Pablo avenue into Berkeley and Oakland and Richmond at present. Improvement in this service is now being considered.

There will be automobiles at the tract office Blue and Yellow buildings on San Pablo avenue to take those who visit the property on an inspection tour.

Rain or shine the sale is to go on.

Rev. Frost Talks At Banquet of Wesley Church

Rev. H. H. Frost who is the pastor of the Trinity M. E. church of Berkeley was the speaker of the evening at the Father and Son Banquet held in the Wesley Methodist church last evening. His talk was especially interesting for he is closely associated with a great number of young people for he is the leader of the Wesley Foundation for Young People which is composed of the students at the California University who are affiliated with the Methodist church.

Great enthusiasm was shown in the songs that were sung from the special pamphlet that had been prepared for National Father and Son Week. The songs were written to create a closer comradeship between the boy and his father which is the motive for the movement.

Rev. Charles Lindemann gave an address and Miss Ruby Williams, president of the Epworth League gave a talk on the trip around the world that is to be made this evening by the members of the league.

The fine dinner was prepared by the Ladies aid society under the direction of Mrs. W. F. Downer who wishes to thank all those who helped for their splendid cooperation.

The meeting was adjourned so that the boys and their fathers could go to the Y. M. C. A. where they enjoyed the evening in company with members of other churches who had come there from Father and Son dinners.

Dad and Son Trade Ideas At Banquet

"What I Would Do If I Were Dad," was the amusing and interesting topic for the three minute talk given last evening by Burrell Miller and Louis Albert at the Father and Son Banquet held in the First Presbyterian church. D. W. Albert also told what he would do if he were the son.

P. M. Sanford was the toastmaster for the evening and he gave a fine outline of the father and sons movement which was started in 1907 by a Y. M. C. A. secretary and the banquet last evening was given in connection with the national father and son week that is being sponsored by the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. W. W. Giberson gave the address of welcome for the evening and introduced the speaker for the evening, Dr. James Falconer of the Knox Presbyterian church of Berkeley who gave a splendid address on the father and son movement.

Community singing was led by A. W. Miller, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. E. W. Haney announced that there would be special services for Fathers and Sons on next Sunday evening at his church and a special section would be reserved so that they might sit together.

The ladies aid society served an excellent dinner with Mrs. J. S. Spires as chairman.

The committee in charge of the dinner were: Charles St. John, chairman; assisted by Dr. W. W. Giberson, Dr. W. M. Bullock and P. M. Sanford.

State Railroad Commission Is Swamped Claim

Ezra Decoto, member of the State Railroad commission, while speaking in Oakland this week, indicated that the increasing volume of business before the commission threatens to lessen its effectiveness. Matters now have reached a point where hearings on rate and other matters may have to be delegated to examiners, as is customary with the interstate commerce commission.

Six thousand applications from motor truck operators now face the commissioners, Decoto said. He said that if it required only one day to pass on an application, it would require years to clear them away. As it is each application must be investigated and several days are required.

The Haunted House

TALES about it were as numerous as its dark, broken windows. Oaks shadowed it thickly; winds sucked through its halls. The shutters sagged and were ivy-eaten—the windows giving in to an emptiness at once foreboding, dreadful.

Excitement ran agog when the place was bought. School children huddled to watch the rooms renovated. A sign swung out: "Stop her for tea." Lights sprang up. It became a frequent pleasure to drop in of evenings. In time, the towns-people loved the place. The inviting sign, the cleanliness, the light banished fear.

BORDER LEGION NOW SHOWING AT RICHMOND

Headed by Antonio Moreno and Helene Chadwick in featured roles, a remarkably strong cast has been assembled in the newest Zane Grey-Farman production, "The Border Legion," to be shown at the Richmond theatre today and tomorrow.

Moreno has a different sort of role as Jim Cleve, a gay, young irresponsible cowboy. Miss Chadwick's role is that of a typical daughter of the West—beautiful, unafraid.

In the principal supporting roles are Rockliffe Fellowes, leader of "The Border Legion;" Gibson Gowland, his lieutenant; Charles Ogle, a cattleman; James Corey, Edward Gribbon and Luke Cosgrave.

According to Zane Grey, this is a true story. It is clean, wholesome and typically American, chock-full of action, appeal, drama and love. William Howard did the direction, and George Hull wrote the screen play.

The entire production was made in the wild and little-known mountains of the Northwest with the marvelous natural scenery as background.

Other features on the same program include "King Cotton," a Lloyd Hamilton comedy; "Felix A Friend in Need," a Felix the cat comedy.

High School Cadet Corps Will Be Reorganized Here

At a meeting in the gymnasium yesterday morning, 70 students of Richmond Union high school besides the band, signified their desire to take up the cadet work when it opens next semester. Major Ivan Hill, cadet commandant announced. This number will make two companies.

The cadets did not work this semester on account of plans being held up pending definite information on certain changes from the state adjutant's office.

It was also decided at the school yesterday to organize the Girl's association. This organization is intended to unite the girls and to give them more influence in school activities. Three articles of the constitution, name, purpose and membership, were adopted.

"Sally of the Sawdust" Showing At the California Theatre

CAROL DEMPSTER and W.C. FIELDS in D.W. GRIFFITH'S "SALLY OF THE SAWDUST"

W.C. Fields, Broadway's funny man and comedian in the famous Ziegfeld "Follies" has no desire to become a Shakespearean actor. He wants to be a comedian all his life.

"I never want to play a serious part," said Fields as he finished a funny scene in "Sally of the Sawdust." D.W. Griffith's new United Artists Corporation release now showing at the California theatre. Fields appears as Prof. Eustace McGargle, which part he played for eleven months while the stage play from which the film was adapted was on Broadway, New York.

"Actors who try to change from funny to serious parts lose their stage effectiveness," said Fields. "It requires just as much talent to be a good comedian as it does an actor of serious parts. Funny stuff is a failure unless it is timed correctly. This all depends upon the actor. He must study his audience and learn if it thinks quickly as a unit. If it does then the funny gags can be pulled in rapid succession. But, if an audience is slow in thinking, then to pull gags quickly would mean that several would be lost."

This is Fields' first appearance in pictures in an important part.

Educated Eva Stolen, Culprit Tried by Court

The notorious felony trial of Clark Woods, charged with horse stealing was heard by the court composed of civic students of Richmond Union high school. The jury returned a verdict of guilty and the person charged with stealing Educated Eva, the circus wonder horse, was given a heavy sentence.

The case proved to be interesting and was not without pathos. Sarcasm and insults were hurled in the speeches of the attorneys, proving that their interest in the causes at stake was strong. The plaintiff and defendant, it seems, both had a great love for Eva, which showed both of them to be good hearted and possessed of fine intentions.

The defendant was in a critical condition during the trial and it was feared he would have a nervous breakdown. He was quite pale and ashy and trembled violently during the proceedings.

Temporary insanity was offered as an excuse for the offense, the fit being brought on by a long session with the skeleton side show. The effects were still evident the next day. The trial ended with a riotous argument between the defending and prosecution attorneys. After long deliberation the jury returned a verdict recommending leniency. This was carried out by the judge who imposed a sentence of two years in the rock quarry.

The participants in the trial were:

James Thornton, judge; Clarke Woods, defendant; Robert Penix, plaintiff; John Dalton, prosecuting attorney; Russell King, defending attorney; Eleanor Ebenben and Charles Cecil, witnesses for the defense; Fern Scarlett and Charles Thompson, witness for prosecution; Marie Beckman, court reporter; Stephen Pedrotti, bailiff; Alfred Periconi, sheriff.

Many Charges Are Made by Man Seeking Divorce

She kissed another man. She absented herself from home. She admitted associating with other men. She threatened him. She attacked him violently.

These are some of the charges that Melvin W. Clements of Richmond brought against his wife, Elizabeth, when he filed suit for divorce in Martinez yesterday, through Attorney Will S. Robinson.

Clements first became suspicious, he claims, when coming home one night he saw through a window, his wife sitting on the lap of another man and kissing. This man is named in the complaint as William Ferrara, of Elmhurst.

Clements declares that he entered the house, laid down on a couch and feigned sleep, and that when his wife thought him asleep she resumed her caressing of the other man. Clements asks the custody of a five-year-old son.

Objects of Moose Are Outlined In Talk at Lodge

J. S. McGinnis, secretary of the Richmond lodge of Moose, "delivered an interesting talk before the members at the meeting in Moose hall last night, on the subject 'The Aims of the Moose'.

The talk dealt chiefly with the order as a whole, but in a few words the speaker told the purpose of all the funds for which assessments are made during the year.

Following the lodge room session, over which William Vossbeck, of the Richmond Music company, brought his orchestra to the hall and rendered a number of selections.

Martinez will come to Richmond on next Thursday night and confer the initiatory degree on a large class of candidates.

The dictator urges that all members be in attendance on this occasion.

E. B. Ross was a visitor at the session.

City League Cagers Play Fast Contests

Two of the hardest games of basketball ever witnessed in local courts took place last night when the team of Standard Oil and Al-bakay of Oakland tangled and McRackens met Kearney-Furrer in the Roosevelt gym in the city league games.

The Standard-Oakland game proved to be the feature of the evening. Action was the keynote of the encounter from whistle to whistle and the teams battled nearly on par. Albakay finally won out 21 to 16. Johnnie Hutton, playing forward for Richmond and Condel, in the same position for Oakland, featured the game. Hutton run up seven points for his team, while Condel shot four buckets.

Following are the lineups of the teams and the points scored by each man:

Saturday May Decide Title For Football

conference champions. If Washington wins there can be little doubt. If California wins there is yet the Stanford game to be fought by the Bears. A battle which can never be regarded as a sure thing either way.

Should the Bears beat Washington and lose to Stanford the coast conference would include 4 teams with one defeat each as leaders in the west.

Coast football for the above reasons centers now on two subjects, The Washington-California game and the condition of Elmer Nevers Stanford's candidate for All-American fullback who will be heart and soul of Stanford attack against California. Nevers went to the hospital Wednesday night with an alleged "slight brain concussion" from the battering in the game with the huskies. Physicians stated however that he had better than a 50-50 chance to play against California. It is expected that he may leave the Palo Alto hospital tomorrow afternoon.

Kierd, and other grand officers.

Following the lodge session a banquet was served, during which a program of songs and music was given. A feature of this entertainment were the selections rendered on the harmonica by Master Laurence Smith, violin selections, and songs by Criss Corr. The committee for the evening consisted of Dan Bradley, J. Shinnick, 7 Reardon and J. Silva.

Man Arrested On Check Charge

Hugh R. Miles, alias Earl T. Smith, of Merced, is in the city jail, facing a charge of passing fictitious checks on local merchants. Miles used the name of Smith and passed checks with no funds to meet them, according to the police.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Milnes of San Monica, are visiting with the family of G. E. Milnes. The trip from the southern part of the state was made by automobile.

BOY LOOSES COLLIE DOG

Bad Luck seems to be Rayvern Van Marter's middle name these days as far as his dogs are concerned.

A short time ago Rayvern's collie dog Laddie, was poisoned. A lady in Oakland gave Rayvern another collie dog called "Buddie" and just as Rayvern and Buddie started to get acquainted, the dog disappeared.

Rayvern is conducting a systematic search to find his new friend and has asked anyone seeing the white and buff collie to let him know at his home, 2639 Downer avenue.

C. OF C. PLANS FOR BIG TIME AT MEETING

Extensive plans are under way for the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce which is scheduled to take place next Wednesday in the Odd Fellows banquet rooms, and promises to surpass all past affairs of its kind.

Fred LaMoine, who is chairman of the banquet committee, outlined the plans for the evening yesterday at the meeting of the directors in the Chamber of Commerce.

An elaborate program is being arranged by E. B. Bull, who promises that there will be many novel features during the evening.

A campaign will be planned this afternoon when J. F. Strom and the rest of the booster committee meet to devise ways and means of having a 100 per cent attendance at the dinner.

Bringing Richmond before the notice of eastern industrial capital was brought up by J. M. Healey who represented an industrial organization.

City Manager James A. McVittie has been appointed to the executive board, which is handling the affairs of the chamber of commerce, pending the appointment of a secretary.

THEY WANT TO BE SURE IT IS THE REAL THING

James A. Brennan, 26 of 207 West Richmond avenue, and Blanche A. Williams, 17 of 187 of Berkeley, secured a marriage license in Martinez several days ago, and were wed by Rev. A. A. Chapman of Martinez.

Now the couple return to the county seat and ask to be married once again, the bride claiming that in obtaining the license she stated her age to be 18 when she was only 17. She produced a written consent of her parents but the clergyman refused to re-marry them. The matter was taken up with the civil authorities and County Clerk J. H. Wells, filed the written consent with the first marriage license and there the matter rests.

Comely Maidens Strive to Negotiate Difficult Steps of The Charleston In Costumes of 1865

Changes Made In Machine Shops At High School

Due to the ever growing demand for vocational work in the machine shop the shop of Richmond Union High school has been increased and divided into an elementary and advanced section.

The advance machine shop is completely equipped with new machinery and tools. The latest type of universal grinding machine has been installed. A vernier adjustment permits removing one ten-thousandth of an inch from work being ground and the adjustments are made with the aid of magnifying glasses.

Other new machinery includes a heat-treating furnace, several new lathes and a new milling machine, a drill press and a grinding stand. At present the shop is making forty-two mandrels. These are made of tool steel turned in the lathes. After turning they are hardened in the heat treating furnace and later they are ground to the required size.

In the shop students are taught to forge, weld, the art of heat treating, grinding, milling, tool making and battery work. Students are making all tools needed in the work. Students studying physics or mathematics find these subjects useful in the machine shop.

Log Cabin Circle Elects Officers

Banner, outer sentinel; Alice Fanning, captain of the guard; Beatrice Sweet, flag bearer; Mary Malory, musician; Bessie Eggerth, press correspondent; Amelia Bowell, installing officer. The committee to have charge of the next meeting is Bessie Eggerth, Eunice Eggerth, Alice Fanning, and Catherine Govey.
